EUROPEAN WATER RESOURCES ASSOCIATION (EWRA)

EWRA is a leading European non-profit organization aiming at the enhancement of cooperation and the exchanges in application and research on all aspects of water resources. EWRA's activities include organization of conferences, symposia and training courses, publication of journals, bulletins, conference proceedings and newsletters, as well as expert knowledge networks. The Association, originally constituted in 1988 as ECOWARM and renamed to EWRA in 1992, is in close cooperation with other scientific and professional associations.

Further information regarding EWRA can be found at www.ewra.net.

- Sustainable Development
- Best Practices
- Water Conservation –Management and Technology
- Macro-engineering and Environmental Governance
- On the Road to Copenhagen (a round-table discussion about the “new Kyoto Protocol”)

The University of Cyprus in association with the European Water Resources Association (EWRA) cordially invite you to EWRA’s 7th International Conference, “Water Resources Conservation and Risk Reduction Under Climatic Instability”. The conference will be held in Limassol, Cyprus (25-27 June 2009) and it will focus on the following thematic areas:

Water Related Natural Hazards: Proactive Planning and Crisis Management

- Droughts / Floods
- Water Shortage
- Water Pollution
- Landslides
- Dam Break
- Sea Water Intrusion into Coastal Aquifers

Water Conservation: Management & Technology – Public Learning & Participation

- Urban Water Supply Systems
- Irrigation
- Water Reuse
- Brackish Water – Water Treatment
- Desalination
- Energy Conservation
- Groundwater Resources
- Decentralized Wastewater Treatment
- Integrated Water Resources Management

Macro-engineering and Environmental Governance

- Water Conveyance
- Transboundary River Basins
- Coastal Areas
- Energy Production and Distribution
- Mega-cities and Population Movement
- Transportation Systems
- Climate change impacts and adaptation
- Water and Society

The University of Cyprus also welcomes the SMART research consortium for their scientific coordination meeting on Sustainable Management of Available Water Resources with Innovative Technologies (SMART), to be held during EWRA2009 (<http://www.iwrm-smart.org/>).
